WHAT will the Democrats do for a leader in the House? They can't lean against Grover Cleveland there.

GEN. G. W. BROWN, of Grafton, whose death is announced, had a long public career for one of his age. It will be remembered that denials flew thick and fast when the pres ent management was dickering with the former proprietor. For some reasons we should regret to see the genial General Manager pass out, for it has been the good fortune of the INTELLIGENCER to have the most pleasant relations with him. Wherever he may be, in whatever engaged, he will continue to be our es teemed cotemporary. Mr. McKinney is a pleasant man, too.

"Fresh From the People."

Our Congressional elections are so arranged that the statesman who takes his seat to-day, and the other statesman who is shivering in the lobby wonder ing when he will get his seat, are already snifling the breeze to learn whether they can scent a renomination in the atmos phere of the coming summer.

This ought not so to be. The House which assembles to-day should have been elected this year. Then there would be something in the boast of Con gressmen that they are "fresh from the people." Now they are rather stale sometimes a little musty, before they

The Democratic party, which neve has been able to impress itself upon the great conservative body of traders and the more thrifty workmen of the coun try, but which always has sought to compass power by bringing the ignorant and most lately naturalized proletariat of Europe with political subservience the oligarcias of wealth—the old slave-holders, the great planters, the powers of Wall street the projectors of the Angle-Wall street, the projectors of the Anglo American Salt Trust, the great Coal Oil Trust, and the likes of these—has found a fruitful theme of satire and indigna tion in the appointment of Mr. Wana maker to the office of Pestmaste

No Democratic administration ever has No Democratic administration ever has recognised the wealth, the intelligence, the honorable condition of the great retail trade of this country by appointing one of its members to a cabinet office. General Grant would have made the late A. T. Stewart Secretary of the Treasury had not a constitutional interdict prevailed. And it hardly is questionable that Mr. Stewart had all the qualifications of mind and education for the successful management of the Treasury, General Harrison made John Wanakaker Postmaster General, and it hardly is General Harrison made John Wanakaker Postmaster General, and it hardly is questionable that Mr. Wanamaker posseeses that soundly business mind and that rigidly upright conscience which

The Democrats, having failed to do anything about the tariff when they had the House, will be particularly averse to the passage of a tariff bill by a Congress Republican in both branches, with a Republican President ready to sign the bill.

All the same the Republicans must try to pass a tariff bill such as they have promised the country, and they must try hard. If the Democrats defeat them with obstructive tactics, the blame will be on the Democrats.

the sermon delivered by Dr. Talmage in Brindisi. Here is the New York Tribune's idea of this kind of enterprise:

The Deservation and the the New York Alter all, American newspapers are not as eath terprising as they might be. Proof, Well, et proof, well and the same sermon, word feel proof, they could not be as the sermon, word feel proof, and the same sermon, word feel proof, and the declor's published sermons. Occourse, it looks very enterprising to publish a cable report of a sermon on Monday morning. But how much more enterprising it would are been the have published the whole sermon on the morning of its delivery. Besides, it must cost a great deal of mousy to telegraph a sermon from Brindisi.

The been craze appears to have fairly set in in Boston, and that before the frost has gone into the ground. What will be the result before spring it is quite to complete. Already a series of Ibsen readings is announced, to the declor's published sermon on the morning of its delivery. Besides, it must cost a great deal of mousy to telegraph a sermon from Brindisi.

The bear craze appears to have frost has gone into the ground. What will be the result before spring it is quite to conjecture. Already a series of Ibsen readings is announced, to the next thing will be Ibsen clubs. The coast is fairly clear for this fresh invasion. Robert Eismere has gone wholly out of sight, and, although Belliamy is still read, he is in not so great demand as the once was. Ibsen seems to have cellpsed even Browning, for his last new which once would have been felt among his Boaton admirers. The cry of to-day is, "Ibsen forever."

To Make Children Lovely.

There is just one way, and that is to pit may be at liberty to make his own selections from the edition of sermona published in 1874.

This is not fair. Dr. Talmage is supposed to be a progressive man, who preaches better now than he did fifteen or twenty years ago.

"Pire-proof" Buildings and the Fire Tax. The "fire-proof" buildings are having a hard time of it. When the fire takes hold in earnest, they go, perhaps not "like tinder-boxes," but it matters little how so that they do not serve their purpose. In Lynn, Boston and Minneapolis within a few days costly buildings called fire-proof have been shown no proof at all against destruction by fire. Great structures, in a double sense imposing, now lie in ruins.

There is just one way, and that is to surround them by day and night with an atmosphere of love. Restraint and reproof may be mingled with the love, but love must be a constant element. "I found my little girl was growing numinable and plain;" said a mother to gus the other day, "and, reflecting on it is the other day, "and, reflectin

Mr. Reed will be a great loss to his party on the floor, where, now that his party is in the majority, and a alim one at that, a man of his fertility of resource, his quickness of perception, marvelous tenacity and undaunted courage, is greatty needed. There are other men of ability on the Republican side, but Mr. Reed has shown himself the best leader since Garfield, who worthily followed Blaine.

As Speaker Mr. Reed will be a decided change from Mr. Carlisle. The retiring Speaker has ability of a high order, but it is not Mr. Reed's kind of ability. Mr. Carlisle's mind works more slowly. He does not seize a point as Mr. Reed does not seiz

The Nouth is looming up as a future source of supply for Bessemer pig and ores, and may put a check upon any further immediate advance in prices.

Carnegie Bros. & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., have recently bought 2,000 tons of Bessemer iron from the Talladega Furnace in Alabama, and should the deposit which this furnace has opened, and which has supplied the ore to make these 2,000 tons of iron, prove to have, as it appears to have, depth, etc., it is fair to presume that a supply of Bessemer pig can be drawn from these furnace or supply of Bessemer pig can be drawn from these furnace.

as it appears to have, depth, etc., it is fair to presume that a supply of Bessemer pig can be drawn from these furnaces. It is also stated that other Bessemer ores have been discovered in the South from a deposit that seems to be of considerable magnitude. Ore containing over 50 per cent of metallic iron, and only .003 of phosphorus have lately been analyzed in Pittsburgh. This ore, it is said, can be laid down there for less than $3 a ton.

On foundry pig iron the situation is unchanged. The Tennessee Coal & Iron Company quotes prices for next year's deliveries on the basis of $16 at furnace, or equivalent to $20 11 at tidewater, but no consumers are taking hold at that price. All Eastern buyers now anxiously await the announcement of prices by the leading Pennsylvania companies. Up to the present time the officials of those concerns appear indifferent about booking orders, and give no hint as to whether they will raise prices above $18 for No. 1 iron. With respect to the Tennessee Company, it is learned that they have 48,000 tons yet to deliver on old contracts, and are, therefore, not in a position to enter very extensive orders: requiring deliveries during the first quarter of 1890. Contherefore, not in a position to enter very extensive orders requiring deliveries during the first quarter of 1890. Consumers who buy hand-to-mouth still have to pay fancy prices for popular brands where deliveries within thirty days are required. In other words, spot stock in small lots brings $19a20 for No. X and $18a19 for No. 2 X foundry.

Scotch pig is somewhat lower in the primary markets, but still so high that American softeners are substituted, keeping business in the imported article down to retail proportions. Prices here are purely nominal at about $24a2450 for Eglinton and Dalmellington, and $26 50a27 50 for the best brands.

The "Unclaimed Estate" Industry

New York Times.

Several very large "unclaimed estates" in Great Britain have suddenly come to light in the last few days, and the movements of the "heirs" in this country afford ground for a belief that an old industry has been revived. It is noticeable that these "estates" go under new names. The vast accumulations of the Woods, the Bradfords, and the Jennings family rest in peace, and now we hear of the millions left to the Hakes and the Moffitts. A lawyer from Londen has appeared in St. Louis and enlightened the Hakes of that city concerning the songers of the English Chancery Court" antil the time when they shall prove coffers of the English Chancery Court" until the time when they shall prove their right to enjoy it. The Moffitt estate slightly exceeds in value the Hake property, as it amounts to $46,000,000. It is all in Ireland. Some of the "heirs" have been found in Eau Claire, Wis., and Cartage, III, and they will send a lawyer to Ireland in the spring. If these heirs will become familiar with the reports of our diplomatic and consular representatives in England concerning this "unclaimed-estate industry, they will learn something to their advantage.
